Volunteer at YWIB

HUWIB is hosting Young Women in Business, a philanthropic conference at Harvard on Saturday, April 10th for 30-50 middle school girls. A vital part of the conference is the involvement of HUWIB members who volunteer to aid in the personal and professional development of this diverse group of young females. The conference will include a meet and greet between HUWIB members and YWIB attendees from 3 - 4 pm, where each HUWIB member will speak with a small group of YWIB attendees. Please e-mail dkolin@fas.harvard.edu if you're interested in being involved in this volunteer opportunity!

Introducing the IBC Campus Ambassador Program

Do you have friends at other schools interested in business? If so, nominate them to be a Campus Ambassador for this year's IBC!

Campus Ambassadors will work closely with the IBC marketing team to promote IBC at their respective schools. They will be responsible for publicizing IBC on their campus and will serve as the liaisons for their schools on the day of IBC. Perks for Campus Ambassadors will include: access to special panels, special networking opportunities, a waived registration fee, and the opportunity to collaborate with Harvard's IBC team!

If you have a friend who may be interested, please send her name and e-mail address to tracy.jasper@gmail.com

China Spotlight Dinner Recap

HUWIB's Spring 2010 Spotlight Dinner on a Culture of the World: China was an extremely enjoyable event. On Friday, March 26th, HUWIB members and members of the Harvard community were treated to some delicious Chinese cuisine while listening to Courtney McColgan, co-Founder of Wokai, speak about her experiences in starting up a business in China and living and working there. As a young entrepreneur, she was both an engaging and relatable speaker. A big thank you from the Corporate Development Committee to all those who were able to attend!
